

Regulators Embrace Rsam to Automate their GRC Programs

Rsam Selected by Federal Regulators in Financial Services, Healthcare, and Energy Industries

Secaucus, NJ – March 30, 2010: Four major regulators of Financial Services, Healthcare, and Energy have chosen Rsam as their GRC platform to support their sustainable risk and compliance programs. Rsam, chosen for its mature technology, powerful risk analytics and reporting, dynamic workflow, and rapidly configurable framework that matches their requirements, will automate internal governance, risk, and compliance program, as well as help regulators monitor the organizations they oversee.

Rsam automates processes, creates efficiencies, and reduces both time and costs associated with risk and compliance initiatives. Rsam's 7th generation platform offers modular solutions, out-of-the-box functionality, and rapid deployment across all vertical industries. Federal customers have leveraged Rsam to create a central repository of risk and controls, gain enterprise wide visibility, oversight and assurance, and to help monitor internal areas. In use cases where federal regulators leverage Rsam to monitor compliance of organizations they oversee, Rsam becomes a portal for the regulated companies to enter their compliance findings directly on a regular basis. Regulators are able to quickly track non-compliance items, related remediation plans and timeframes, and create role-based dashboards & metrics to gain visibility into the company's compliance posture.

“Rsam has achieved wide-spread adoption by leading organizations leading Financial Services, Healthcare, and Energy vertical that use Rsam to automate their internal GRC programs. We are very proud and excited that now, the federal regulators and examiners themselves, are also embracing Rsam to automate their risk and compliance management programs/processes,” said Vivek Shivananda, Rsam CEO.
